On my flight from Perth to Brisbane yesterday, just hours before leaving Australia for my next medical mission, a man collapsed mid-air.

I responded instinctively, and soon after was joined by another cardiothoracic surgeon. We performed CPR together. We used the defibrillator. We did everything we could. But he was already gone.

Out of respect for his privacy and his family, I won't share details. But I will say this: it never gets easier.

A life lost anywhere, in any moment always leaves a silence. The kind of silence that humbles everyone in its presence. The cabin, the crew, the passengers, everything shifted. We were no longer just in transit, we were witnessing the end of someone's journey.

To his loved ones, wherever they are, especially in Perth, may you find peace and patience in this difficult time. I hope you know he wasn't alone.

I didn't expect this to be part of my last day in Australia, a place that has been home to me for so many years. But sometimes the call comes mid-air. And when it does, you answer.

A life is precious, on the ground, in the sky, in every corner of this earth.

And to my friends I couldn't see before leaving, please forgive the sudden change of plans.

Australia will always have a special place in my heart.

A man reportedly collapsed on a Virgin Australia flight between Perth and Brisbane.

While the details surrounding the incident are scarce, it's understood that medical assistance was provided, and the flight continued to Brisbane.

Here's a breakdown of what is known:

- Event: A man collapsed on a Virgin Australia flight traveling from Perth to Brisbane.

No words can soften this. Gaza is being starved and slaughtered before the world's eyes. This is not war, it is genocide. Silence is complicity. It must be stopped now. Every second counts

I've never seen this many children die from cardiac arrest, one after another. Collapsing from severe malnutrition, dirty water, unstoppable diarrhea, hypokalaemia, and arrest. And the number keeps rising. Gaza has been stripped of every source of life: no food, no water, no electricity, no money.

Baby formula is forbidden at the border, babies are being starved to death on purpose.

This famine intensified 6 months ago, when even a grain of wheat was banned from entering Gaza. Now children are dying and adults are collapsing beside them.

We doctors were allowed only one bag, a carry-on, and $280 total no matter how long we're staying for, and cards don't work here.

This genocide, mass killing, and starvation must end now

In Gaza, it is no longer rare to meet someone who is the only survivor of their family. Entire families have been wiped out, leaving behind a lone mother without her children, or a child without parents, siblings, or home. And what can you say about that pain? You cannot measure it, you cannot compare it, a mother's scream is just as unbearable as a child's silence. The grief is endless, and it belongs to everyone here.

People are being bombed, killed, jailed, tortured, and starved. Whole towns have been erased, reduced to dust. Those who remain live day by day, knowing that any second could be their last. Survival is not guaranteed, it is a constant struggle against hunger, against rubble, against despair.

And yet, this is the miracle. Despite everything, the people of Gaza remain the most beautiful souls you will ever encounter. Their spirit is unbreakable, their love untouched by war, their humanity shining through the darkest night. No matter how much you see from afar, it is nothing compared to standing here, feeling the weight of destruction, and at the same time witnessing the most extraordinary resilience the world has ever known 💙

This is a lucky chest tube done in the corridor. Most are done on the floor, surrounded by mass casualties so horrific that social media platforms do not allow them to be shown: bodies torn apart, agony everywhere, the hospital drowning.

The injuries come in waves: tents bombed by airstrikes because no houses remain, or starving aid seekers shot by snipers at the humanitarian aid sites (death traps).

And now, no equipment is left. Down to the basics, even that is gone. We use whatever scraps we can, anything at all, just to save a life

We see what horror movies don't dare show: abdomens ripped open, limbs gone, brains exposed, eyes destroyed, children burned alive.

The majority come from so-called "humanitarian aid" sites, famine zones turned death traps. Young people risk everything for a bag of flour, only to return shot in the head, neck, chest. Snipers, illegal bullets tearing inside their bodies. Most are under 25. They are starved, then slaughtered at the very places meant to feed them.

This is a 16-year-old with a bullet to his brain shot at the Netzarim Gaza Humanitarian Foundation GHF site.

This is Gaza. And no words, no screen, no distance can carry the weight of what's being done to its people

Hospitals are operating beyond capacity with critical equipment at or near "stock zero" we cannot provide safe care under these conditions.

Medical facilities and staff must be protected, denying that protection is a direct threat to human life and medical ethics.

We do not ask to leave, we are doctors and staff who remain here because we care, we are not above these people, we are with them.

What we ask is simple: stop the blockade that has made hospitals unlivable. Watching entire families die for lack of medicine is beyond human limits

I had the privilege of meeting the beautiful family of Dr. Hussam Abu Safiya a paediatrician, neonatologist, and former director of Kamal Adwan Hospital, who gave his life to saving children. He has now been detained without charge for 270 days. A doctor's place is by his patients' side, not behind bars. May he, and all innocent people, be freed soon

It's an absolute atrocity living in those conditions, in the 21st century! They should be ashamed to call themselves human, there is no humanity whatsoever in what is taking place over there! To all those risking their lives in a helpless environment for others may you return and be at peace! Those scars and memories can never be erased

They bombed the home of Dr. Mohammed Abu Salmiya, director of Al-Shifa Hospital, while we were at work with him.

The man who saved thousands in Gaza watched his own family pulled from the rubble, dead, or crushed with disabling wounds.

This is not war.

This is not defense.

This is the murder of healers, families, and hope itself
